Y. W. C. A. MAKES REPORT ON ITS FIRST FEW MONTHS OF EXISTENCE

Rooms Furnished Many Girls and Numerous Picnic and Camping Parties Arranged—1,049 Had Paid Dues September 1.

The first fall meeting of the board of directors of the Y. W. C. A. was held at the association rooms on Henry street Monday evening, with eighteen of the directors present. Necessary routine business was transacted, and then the reports for the summer months were given.

Mrs. Caroline B. Dickinson, chairman of the room registry service, reported that she had 58 houses listed, of which 35 had been visited by her committee. During July and August she stated that 53 had been placed in rooms, 50 referred to hotels and restaurants, making a total of 103 served in this department. Considering how new the association is and how little publicity this work has had, thus far, these figures were considered to be most encouraging. Mrs Dickinson and her committee are planning much good work for the future.

Miss Jean Estey, general secretary, and Miss Margaret Passmore, recreation secretary reported on the activities carried on during the summer. Altogether there were 27 activities scheduled in which girls took part with the attendance in the different affairs ranging anywhere from 8 to 55, according to the attraction. In addition to the special sociability party held at Camp Ideal, when 54 girls enjoyed a picnic, there were fourteen girls registered as guests at the camping party during the last two weeks of August, all of whom reported having a "wonderful time."

Mrs. J. Allan Wood, chairman of membership, had a most excellent report of the work done by her committee. Up to September 1st 1,049 pledged members had paid their dues, which announcement was enthusiastically received. It was voted by the board that the charter membership be formally closed on September 25th, and it is hoped that all pledged memberships may be paid by that date.

Miss Lillian Herdman gave an interesting account of her two weeks at Camp Altamont, where she attended the business girls' conference. She stated that there were 273 girls in attendance, and the program was most inspiring. Mrs. Dickinson also reported on the city conference held at Silver Bay, where she and Miss Estey represented the Kingston association. There were more than 500 delegates present and the days spent together were most helpful to all in working out plans for the association program for the coming year.

Mrs. George F. Rice, president, announced that within the next few days she would appoint the standing committees and then definite plans for the year could be made public.

ASK WHEN ITALY WILL EVACUATE

Ambassadors Suggest That Her Soldiers Begin to Quit Greek Soil as Soon as Commission Begins Investigating Slayings.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Sept. 11— The inter-allied council of ambassadors has requested the Italian delegate, Signor Avezzana, to request Premier Mussolini to state precisely when the Italians will evacuate Greek soil, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

Signor Avezzana also was requested to submit the suggestion that Italy begin evacuating as soon as the mixed commission gives notice that the inquiry into the assassination of General Tellini and his colleagues is well under way.

The French, British, Italian and Japanese investigators are expected to begin their work at Janina next Sunday or Monday.

The ambassadors will meet at five o'clock this afternoon to complete details of the inquiry and to study the Italian reply.

Lord Crewe, the British delegate, expressed disappointment over Premier Mussolini's statments to the press indicating long drawn Italian occupation. Lord Crewe agreed to the ambassadorial note to Athens upon persuasion of M. Cambon, French president of the ambassadorial council, and Signor Avezzana. Lord Crewe was informed if the council supported the Italian viewpoint Mussolini would make a "generous gesture" by evacuating promptly.

Greek Minister Romanos gave the following exclusive statement:

"I have just delivered a message from my government to the ambassadorial circle saying Greece is ready to carry out all the honors and ceremonies for the slain Italians Thursday.

"Personally I believe Thursday too soon for the allies, but my government wishes the ceremonies soon as possible to show good faith. Latest information from Athens indicates the assassins are hiding in the Albanian mountains."

New York Suspends Business While Dirigible Flies Over

Millions Gape Upward As Navy's ZR-1 Has Successful Trial.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 11.—The giant dirigible, the ZR-1, flying ahead of schedule, passed over the tip of Manhattan Island heading north in an air lane above Broadway at 11:43 o'clock, (daylight time).

Three airplanes accompanied the ZR-1. Thousands packed roof tops and all traffic stopped in the streets as the great ship continued its trip up town.

The airplanes were sent from Mitchell Field, Long Island to welcome the ZR-1. They were piloted by Lts. E. H. Barkdale, Clyde B. Finter and Newton H. Longfellow.

As the dirigible passed over the Woolworth tower it was flying at an altitude of 1,500 feet. Further uptown the ship dipped slightly.

As the ZR-1 sailed up the bay from off Staten Island ships in the harbor extended a noisy greeting of whistle blasts.

Swinging south at the edge of Yonkers, the immense ship, nosed over toward the East river, following its line down to the bay. At the tip of the island it once more headed north and soon entered the mouth of the great canyon of lower Broadway.

The three airplanes from the army field dipped and twisted about the monster. To the fleet was added the airships of the motion picture news reel photographers who dived about the big ship, seeking to photograph it with the metropolitan area showing below.

The roar of the great motors of the dirigible and hum of the smaller ships brought wonder struck workers from office buildings until roof tops were black. Street cars were blocked so great was the press of the crowds.

It was a practical demonstration of what the great ship could do in war time. Manned by 30 men, and guarded by a fleet of planes such as surrounded the monster as it hovered over America's greatest city today, the ZR-1 clearly showed itself capable of wreaking great destruction.

As the navy's monster came down the East river it dipped low, less than 1,000 feet above the great bridges connecting Manhattan with Brooklyn and Queens. The crew could be seen waving to the millions who watched.

The sun playing against her shining silver sides was blinding. In the shadow the ship had the appearance of a great flying fish.

Hundreds of gulls, attracted in from the sea by the ship's brightness, followed the flight across the island.

On the ship's second turn south, Commander McCrary headed her toward the Hudson river following the line of the Jersey Palisades, to a point near Grant's tomb on Riverside Drive, where the ship again took the New York shore line.

Keeping on down the Hudson, the ship sailed low over the immigrant station at Ellis Island, where thousands of prospective citizens watched in wonder.

Off the island the dirigible dipped three times in salute to the Statue of Liberty and then swung west on its homeward journey to Lakehurst, having remained over Manhattan Island for forty minutes.

The flight of the first American-built rigid airship on America's biggest city was a complete success.

AUTOPSY SHOWS THAT ROTHENBERG BOY WAS KILLED BY STRANGLING

Body Then Dragged Over Rocky Field at Windham—Criticism Increases in Mountains at Delay in Making an Arrest.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Windham, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Authorities investigating the murder of seven-year-old Howard Rothenberg of Newark, N. J., were spurred to action today by reports of a possible plot to kidnap Mrs. Esther Litt, the boy's aunt, being detained here as a witness in the case.

The report was made to Sheriff Pierce by Constable Harry Turk who told of seeing "suspicious persons" near the Branaugh home, where Mrs. Litt is staying.

Linsley Stead, a hired man at the house where Mrs. Litt is under surveillance, and Clarence Blakesley, a neighbor, were taken to the court house, shortly after Turk made his report. Both were questioned. The nature of the investigation was not made public.

Reports have reached authorities that citizens of the district plan an appeal to Governor Smith in an effort to bring about the arrests of persons believed guilty of the crime. Authorities are being criticized for failing to make an arrest after announcing yesterday that the identity of the murderer was known.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 11.—Armed with the findings of persons who examined the exhumed body of Howard Rothenberg, the boy who was murdered at Windham, N. Y., William E. Thorpe, acting district attorney of Greene county, New York, returned to the murder scene today.

The autopsy showed that the Rothenberg boy was strangled to death, and indicated that afterward his body was dragged across rock strewn fields to a hiding place in the thicket growth where it was later found.

GAS IS NOW TO BE BOOSTED

Not In Price But Through Mains By New Pumper Company Has on Way—Distribution System Being Brought Up to Date.

Due to the unusual condition in the water gas set at the plant of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company on Saturday night, it became necessary to shut down that section of the gas making apparatus for a period of about seven hours in order to eliminate the trouble.

The operating practice of the Kingston Gas and Electric Company is to fill its large storage holder during the night in order to meet the demands for gas on the following day so that in this instance difficulty was experienced in meeting the Sunday demands from 10:00 a. m. until 3:00 p. m. The difficulty was evidenced by a poor pressure condition in certain sections. The trouble at the plant has been entirely cleared up and condition are now normal.

The Kingston Gas and Electric Company is making extensive improvements in its distribution system and expects to have new gas pumping equipment in service before October 1. A gas exhauster, familiarly known as a booster, is now in transit and will be installed at the gas works to take gas from the holder and deliver it to the high pressure main at a pressure of from one to two pounds per square inch. The high pressure main is tapped now at three different points, i.e., Meadow street, O'Reilly street and St. James Court and supplies the city's distribution system through governors. New governors are being installed at Meadow street and St. James Court. The governor at O'Reilly street has already been installed in a modern type of manhole and has been put into operation and found to operate very satisfactorily. It has now become necessary to cut it out of service, however, until the new booster has been received and put into service.

These changes will bring the gas distribution system of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company up to date and will improve pressure conditions throughout the entire city.

A Rome dispatch to the Evening News quoted Premier Mussolini as follows:

The correspondent said he was authorized to state Mussolini will evacuate Corfu after fulfilment of all penalties imposed by the ambassadors upon Greece.

LUCK WITH ABSENT MINDED SUITCASE OWNER

E. A. Lee of Maplewood, N. J., shortly before noon Monday parked his auto in the public park on John street, and then taking a black suit case from his car placed it on the running board of a Ford car standing close by. He then went away forgetting his suitcase, later when he went for it he found the Ford car gone. Park Keeper Joseph Schuler was told about the missing suitcase by Mr. Lee and then the latter got busy. He called up Joseph Perry, of Staples street, whom Mr. Schuler remembered was the owner of the Ford and asked him if he had the missing suitcase and was told by Mr. Perry that he had not noticed it on the running board when he left the park, and if it had been placed there by Mr. Lee it was possible it had jounced off on his way home. Mr. Schuler then notified police headquarters and a short time afterward was notified by headquarters that an employe on one of Howard C. Winne's autos had found the lost suitcase on Broadway and had informed the police of it. When Mr. Lee came back to the public auto park after an unsuccessful search he was told by Keeper Schuler of the finding of his suit case and was grateful for the quick action taken by Mr. Schuler to find it.

Hundreds of refugees are arriving here daily from the devastated sections are being temporarily housed and clothed.

The seriously injured are being carefully borne through the streets, principally by American seamen from units of the Asiatic fleet and taken to the beautiful Orient Hotel, the spacious ball room of which has been turned into a hospital, with beds and all necessary equipment.

Klan Votes Substitute City Manager and Commission Government For Mayor in Portland, Maine

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Portland, Maine, Sept. 11.—By an amazing plurality of 2,247 votes the Ku Klux Klan won its fight to take control of the civil government in the city election here. Plan No. 3, supported by the "invisible empire," which provides a new city charter and a city manager form of government, was adopted. A commission of five members will take the place of the mayor's council. The old form of government which had been in operation 81 years, will end next January. The city manager may be chosen from any part of the state.

An unusually heavy vote was cast and interest in the fight exceeded almost any previous political fight. Women took a very active part in the fight.

Mayor C. S. Chaplin, who defied the Klansmen, issued the following statement after the votes were counted:

"It is apparent that the citizens of Portland desire a change.

"As the last of its long line of mayors I am prepared to bid farewell to the traditions of 91 years and with the welfare of my native city at heart, to cheerfully resume my place in the ranks and lend every assistance to a fair trial of the new charter in accordance with the public will."

ECLIPSE HAPPENED; THAT'S ABOUT ALL

The partial eclipse of the sun Monday evening arrived on time and created about as much excitement as a train "on the dot" on some railroads. A good many people took a look at it through colored or smoked glass and then went on with their other business. Clouds made the sun visible at intervals only. The elaborate plans for observations of the total eclipse in California, one object of which was to test the Einstein theory of relativity, went awry because the fog totally obscured the sun.

Separate Coat Is in Milady's Favor

Charming Colors and Fabrics Feature Early Fall Modes.

The little separate coats are still going strong and they are made of most fascinating colors and fabrics, notes a fashion writer in the New York Times. There are those of jersey cloth and flannel. Some are made of the thick, woolly surfaced cloths. Others are shaped from matelasse or some all-over embroidered fabric. Others, and perhaps the most popular of all, are made of the heavy woolly knitted materials, looking when finished like some sort of an ethereallzed sweater.

All of these separate jackets are worn with plaited skirts or those that are plain, and the shirtwaists underneath them can be either of that strictly tailored variety in heavy silk or of the lingerie sort that never fails to have its hold on the attention of the feminine gender.

One nice little coat was made of light blue and dark blue blocked woolen material and was worn with a dark blue plaited flannel skirt and a gray crepe blouse, all closely plaited. It was just as interesting as it could be and would do equally well for strictly country wear or for mornings on a city street.

The beautiful part about the lately evolved sport clothes is that they are so interchangeable in character. They are so plain and simple that they look perfectly well for town wear, and yet they fit in splendidly with most of the outdoor activities in the country.

Give Thought to Your Walls and Woodwork

From the standpoint of sanitation, hard, smooth-finished walls, preferably painted, are best. No cracks or crumbling surfaces are found in these to sift dust upon the household. Next to painted walls the most desirable are those that are calcimined. Paper or fabric-covered walls come next, the old paper being first removed. California houses with walls lined with wood and ceiled are easily kept spick and span. These are oiled to keep the wood from weathering. At the other extreme is tile. It is expensive and cold-looking but sanitary. The ceiling usually receives the same treatment as the walls. Fortunately, those overly-ornate ceilings that were once so common are seldom found except in quite pretentious homes. Whatever can or cannot be said in regard to their decorative value, they are certainly to be condemned as affording niches and crevices for the lodgment of dust.

Plain woodwork without unnecessary moldings and beadings is a boon to the busy housewife, as it is easily kept clean. Hardwood is kept in good condition by frequent dustings with an oiled cloth. Pine or other soft wood stained or painted is cleaned in the same way. The practice of cleaning finger marks and other blemishes as soon as they appear does away with the necessity of a general cleaning at intervals. It is this habit, extended throughout the house, that has made the old-fashioned spring and fall cleaning horrors largely a thing of the past.

Ribbons Play Part on New Hats From Paris

On most of the new hats not one but many ribbons are used as trimming. As many as a dozen different kinds of ribbon may appear on one small hat. The elaborate embroidery designs of the season require narrow ribbons of many kinds and many colors to achieve the desired rich effect. Frequently a wide soft ribbon is used to fold around the edge of the brim or to make a bustle bow in the back, or streamers swinging in odd lengths from under the edge of the brim. In fact, the new hats which New York's most renowned millinery importers have brought back from Paris are a marvel in intricacy of design and elaborateness of trimming. For the most part they are made entirely of ribbons, and those that are made of other material are richly embroidered or appliqued with narrow colorful ribbons and ribbon flowers.

BIG EXPOSITION SHOWS MILK AS NATION BUILDER.

Public health and welfare organizations of nation and state-wide scope have offered their cooperation to the national farmers' committee and Manager W. E. Skinner in charge of arrangements for the National Dairy Exposition in demonstrating to visitors the importance of milk as a food. The show will be held at the state fair grounds, Syracuse, N. Y., October 5 to 13.

Among the organizations cooperating in a big human welfare display at the show are the Child Health Organization of America, state colleges of agriculture, state departments of health, the New York state home bureau federation, the nutrition bureau of the Dairymen's League, and others.

Investigation has shown that 20 cents of every dollar in the average food bill is now spent for milk; dietitians assert that at least 44 cents of every food dollar should be spent for milk. If the right amount of milk were consumed the demand for the dairy farmer's product would be doubled, it is stated. It is the aim of the committee in charge of the human welfare display to show by striking exhibits the importance of milk to the health and welfare of children and adults alike.

Thousands of city residents will visit the striking display and learn graphically the importance of having plenty of milk in the diet; in this way the committee believes the exposition can play a great part in promoting the health and well-being of the nation.

IGNORANT OR DISHONEST?

According to an elaborate and lengthy statement made on behalf of those who profess to believe that the Volstead Law is a sacred thing that must not be criticised or changed, although it may be and very generally is broken by its strongest advocates, there is an explanation of how one-half of one per cent of alcohol came to be adopted as the line of separation between intoxicating and non-intoxicating liquors. The explanation, in brief, is that in 1902 one Dr. Max Henius, chairman of a commission of specialists who were asked by the U. S. Internal Revenue Commissioners to decide on what constituted a fermented liquor, reported that a beverage containing one-half of one per cent of alcohol should be classed as fermented.

The sole question involved was one of taxation, the law imposing a tax on fermented liquors and the brewers, with their customary hoggishness, endeavoring to monopolize as nearly as possible the manufacture of all beverages by excluding from the list of tax for beverages, as far as possible, everything that competed with their products. There was no question of a beverage being intoxicating or non-intoxicating. In fact the treasury department formally decided that "The question whether a fermented malt liquor is intoxicating or non-intoxicating is immaterial under the internal revenue laws."

The Volstead Law worshippers and violators blandly put forth this as being in support of the sensitive declaration in that law that one-half of one per cent of alcohol in any beverage makes it an intoxicant. The Eighteenth Amendment says not a word about fermentation. It refers only to "intoxicating liquors." The words are not synonymous and none but a densely ignorant or extremely dishonest person would assume that they mean the same thing. Those who have put forth the "explanation" have classified themselves.

WHEN LEISURE IS DOUBLED.

Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz forecasts a time when electricity will have so vastly eliminated drudgery that a four-hour work day will be sufficient for all purposes. This at once suggests the question as to what the "liberated" millions will do with their leisure. Four hours for work and eight hours or less for sleep will leave at least twelve hours for pleasuring, for idleness, or for voluntarily chosen pursuits apart from one's regular business. How will the millions employ the twelve free hours? Will sports be overdone? Will plunging automobiles multiply twenty times on our roads? Will the movie houses be crowded to suffocation? Will millions attempt to write scenarios where only thousands are striving to do so now? Will the doors to all the creative arts be rushed by a hopeless mob of would-be practitioners? How many will seek culture through self-acquired acquaintance with the best literature? How many will tread the forbidden paths merely in order to find entertainment?

This promise of a four-hour day will cause heads to be wagged gravely over the reflection that a moral equivalent for hard work has never been discovered, and many will express opinion similar to that of the New York Tribune when it declares that "it would be no kindness to take away from millions the routine of labor which employs energy they would be at a loss to know how to spend otherwise." Some of the aggressive moderns might be amused if reminded of the old saying that idleness is the devil's workshop, but the conservatives will at least argue that too much leisure may prove a greater curse than too much work. Self-styled progressives, on the other hand, could doubtless be found ready to contend that a two-hour working day would be better still, reasoning from the assumption that liberty and the pursuit of happiness are limited by any daily task that may not be omitted at will. Enthusiasm of this sort, however, will not dispose of the question as to how a generation will be affected by the halving of its work day and doubling of its play time.

While two sets of partisans argue the matter, the philosopher will recall that similar misgivings were expressed when the eight-hour day was proposed, and that there was even a time when half the population considered quite proper to hold the other half in slavery, and that the world has survived some very far-reaching changes of method. The philosopher will also reflect that, though circumstances may be altered, humanity remains practically the same; that if a four-hour work day arrives, the wise or thrifty will employ their added leisure in one way and the foolish or shiftless will employ it in another way; and that real contentment or happiness is an individual matter, coming or being achieved from within the man himself rather than from the nature of his external surroundings.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. I saw several blackbirds feeding in a park, and two of them had white tails all but the tip. Gait a walk. Size possibly a trifle smaller than the female blackbird, and color a little duller. What were they?
2. What part of a plant is a bulb?
3. Is it true Persian lamb skins are naturally black?

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. I found three snakes in my yard, largest about 16 inches. Head slightly heart shaped, back black, stomach yellow, almost brassy, this color extending from a yellow band around the throat. The biggest, after being wounded, put up a stiff fight. Are they poisonous? I am afraid to let my child play in the yard.

Not poisonous. Apparently an Eastern ring-necked snake Diadophis punctatus. Hides under stones or the bark of fallen trees. Eats earth worms, salamanders and small lizards. Any snake would fight when attacked and wounded.

2. How can a woodpecker get started when boring into hard wood? Why doesn't it break its bill?

Ordinarily when going into hard wood the bird is after a borer, and the borer has already made a small opening. This allows the pecker to push out wedge shaped chips at the edges of the boring, where the wood gives away easily. Often he does not have to go in much of any depth, and can piece out his reaching powers by running his barbed tongue into the worm's boring, as the tongue can stretch beyond the tip of the bill, hooking the prey.

3. Are there ever any albino tigers?

There is little mention on this point in natural histories. In a reputable manual, Poland's Fur Bearing Animals, the author states he has seen albino tigers, but that they are rare. Not actually white, but very light, with pale stripes.

VEGETABLE MEN TO TALK FOOD VALUES

National Growers' Association Has Annual Meeting Scheduled.

Vegetables and vitamins will offer one topic for discussion at the meeting of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America which will hold its annual session at Hotel Statler, Buffalo, September 17 to 20. The vitamin session is down for Tuesday evening. The speakers include Dr. R. Adams Dutcher, chemist and nutrition expert of the Pennsylvania State College, and Professors R. M. Adams and Flora Thurston of Cornell.

Other sessions of the convention are to bring President O. E. Bradfute of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Aaron Sapiro, national leader in cooperation, and President A. B. Clark of the American Seed Trade Association. Advertising vegetable foods, better seed, fewer and better varieties, cooperative marketing, and labor saving devices are also to be discussed.

Secretary C. H. Nissley of New Brunswick has arranged for an extensive trade exhibit that will show the latest advances in greenhouse construction, spraying and dusting, and in labor saving devices such as tractors, washers, bunchers, and the like. A vegetable judging contest for younger gardeners in competition for the Vaughan medals will be another feature.

On Wednesday the convention is to tour the gardening sections of Eden, Orchard Park, and Gardenville as guests of the Erie County Farm Bureau. The party will visit the plant of the Erie County Growers and Shippers' Association and will witness a field demonstration of garden tractors and other labor-saving devices, closing the day with a banquet.

LETTER WRITER STIRS BISHOP

Churchman Says "Enrolled Republican," Skulking Behind Virtual Anonymousness, Quoted Him in Article That Was Inaccurate and Misleading in Several Respects.

To the Editor of The Freeman, Kingston, New York.

Dear Sir:—My attention has been called to a communication in your issue of September 5 in which use is made of my article in the current number of the Methodist Review. The anonymous writer contends that my argument for the repeal of the law of the Methodist Episcopal Church on amusements applies to the situation in your county and state in regard to the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law and its reuation to our national constitution.

Since I have been introduced into your political discussion without my consent, I must ask that what I write be printed as conspicuously as was the letter of your correspondent who uses my name so freely.

Your article is headed "Bishop Hughes Shows Courage." You could not have used the same headline about your correspondent. I am 56 years of age, though your writer speaks of me as "venerable." But I have never in my life written an anonymous letter or any sort. Your "Enrolled Republican" should be suspicious of himself, and of his motive and his cause, merely because he thought it well to skulk behind virtual anonymousness. I can readily understand his feeling; that of moral shame over the doubtful colors that he tries to champion! No wonder that he hid himself from the public!

His article is inaccurate and misleading in several respects. Let me give one or two illustrations.

1. Paragraph 280 of the Discipline of my church says not one word about the liquor traffic or intoxicating beverages. All that is in Paragraph 279. The church long ago put "questionable amusements" into a separate paragraph and left the liquor business in its lonely infancy. Your "Enrolled Republican" should seek a like spiritual discrimination.

2. My article in the Methodist Review made five points, the last one alone relating to the unworkableness of the amusement law; and the plain meaning was that the law was in large part unworkable for the four reasons which preceded my fifth. But your "Enrolled Republican," with his twisted conscience, was quite willing to put me at a disadvantage by using only such parts of my argument as he could contort for his own sad purpose. I have fought the saloon all my days, and I must now decline to allow any shifty writer to identify me in any respect whatsoever with that liquor group of Tammanyites and their moral companions who secured the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law.

3. Your correspondent uses only a part of what I said about a comparison of the civil liquor laws and the ecclesiastical amusement laws. Why did he omit that part which declared that "a comparison of gambling and liquor laws with our legislation on amusements" showed "a lack of [illegible] proportion"? I knew well that desperate rum advocates or yielding partisans were likely to misuse my words. Your correspondent is the pioneer in that respect. He has the "lack of moral proportion," and he has it abundantly. His effort to make out that the Mullan-Gage law was repealed in the interests of stricter and more unified enforcement of the constitution or of the Volstead act does not indicate the slightest sincerity.

Let the people of your county study the list of votes for that repeal. They will discover an occasional fairly decent man, who was finally cajoled into a false position; but they will discover, also, that practically all of the old wet interests were for that repeal. If your assemblyman went over to the liquor crowd in his vote, he has no right to expect to receive the suffrages of conscientious men and women who know perfectly well why the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law was sought.

Much more might be said as to the misleading character of your hidden correspondent's article. But this will be sufficient for my utter repudiation of any partnership in his views.

Let me say most emphatically, as a normal Republican, that I should not vote for the re-election of any man who voted to repeal the Mullan-Gage law. If a convention of my party nominated such a man, I would pay no heed to the convention in that regard. If a decent man ran against such as assemblyman, I should vote for that decent man eagerly, and I should work for him until the going down of the sun on election day. This I should do all the more vigorously, if the assemblyman previously elected had accepted support as an ostensibly dry candidate and had, in the pressure of a crisis, betrayed the moral forces that gave him election.

I am sending this communication to you through the Rev. Robert A. Greenwell, and I am asking him to present it to you for publication. If you feel that you cannot print it, I am requesting him to see that it is put in some manifolded form and used in public ways. I should be glad to have it read in the various pulpits of my own church in your county. Since I am utterly unwilling to have the name of one of the bishops of my church used in a way that would delight every saloonist and brewer and compromising politician, or used in any sense in behalf of an action which sought to put the constitution and the Volstead Act at a disadvantage.

Cordially Yours,
EDWIN H. HUGHES,
Resident Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Boston Area.

Are Women Inconsistent?

THE woman who insists upon having a pure, harmless toilet soap and then accepts and uses some common household soap is inconsistent. For the purpose of the good toilet soap—not to harm her hands—is offset or undone by a common household soap that does harm them.

This is why increasing thousands of sensible, consistent women are insisting upon Kirkman's Soap. They know that Kirkman's is as harmless to their hands as the most exquisite toilet soap.

* * * *

KIRKMAN'S Soap is made of the purest and finest materials and is free from lye to redden or coarsen your hands.

It contains absolutely no adulterants such as starch, talcum powder or water glass, which have no cleansing value.

For all household and laundry purposes, there is nothing better than Kirkman's Soap. Its cleansing properties are unique. They go all through and mix into every atom of water in your washtub. Which means that most of the "elbow-grease" is in the suds when you use Kirkman's Soap.

For the sake of your hands insist upon Kirkman's.

MISS COUTTS TELLS OF 'QUAKE SCENES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Shanghai, Sept. 11.—Among the 237 refugees from Japan who arrived here on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada, probably the most outstanding miraculous escape from death, not alone from the consequences of the earthquake and fire, but from Korean looters, was that of Miss Billy Coutts, prominent American society girl and known as the best horsewoman in China.

Miss Coutts recited for International News Service today her thrilling experience in her escape from Tokio.

"With Mrs W. M. McBain and her little niece, Jean Curry, I was stopping at Zuhl, a summer resort not far from Tokio, when the earthquake came.

"We were in negligee and rushing to the street were horror stricken at the sight of people buried beneath tumbling houses. The entire countryside in a moment was topsy turvy.

"Half dressed, we began walking toward Yokohama, 18 miles distant with the baby and pet bull dog.

"Enroute we encountered pillaging bands of Koreans and Japanese, armed with long, glittering knives and clubs, demanding the possession of all who had valuables. Several Japanese who resisted the bands were killed.

"In a half ruined house we sought temporary refuge after a particularly heavy earth shock precipitated us to the ground. An armed band of pillagers entered, and thinking it was the end, we kissed each other good bye. They left, however, shortly after being assured we had nothing of value in our possession.

"Arriving in Yokohama the scenes resembled a Pompeiian ruin. Intense blackness, occasionally lighted by the flaring of a fire, appeared in all directions. Great fissures opened in the earth destroying the sidewalks and streets, and struggling figures could be seen trying to gain the surface."

Miss Couttts, modestly declining to relate the remainder of her experiences, a companion volunteered:

Miss Coutts, an athlete of note, assisted many persons in jumping the wide fissures in the earth.

"Reaching the water front, and approach to the shore was impossible because of the corpses and dead. Miss Coutts, making a human latter of herself, swung downward from a bridge and safely landed the McBain baby and bull dog into a sampan, which took us aboard the Canada.

TRAFFIC SIGNS BY PERMISSION ONLY

The police department of New York city is carrying on a campaign at the present time arresting proprietors of business houses who place traffic signs in front of their places of business prohibiting parking where permission to install such a sign had not been first obtained from the city authorities.

In Kingston some of the business houses found the parking of cars a nuisance when their own trucks drove up with a merchandise to unload, and have applied to the board of public works for permission to erect "No Parking" signs which has been granted.

This morning Chief of Police J. Allan Wood in response to inquiries stated that as far as he knew no traffic signs had been placed by individuals without first obtaining permission from the city authorities except in some cases where the signs had been erected on private property and off the street line.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Copyright by the Press Publishing Co.

THE CIRCUS

A little boy named Billy was in the tent next to the big tent. He was looking at some of the animals there and also there were some of the Living Wonders sitting upon a platform.

The giraffes were bowing their heads, and making beautiful, low, cordial bows and greeting the crowds coming to the circus.

Billy was quite sure they bowed to him several times so as to make sure that he saw them.

And he bowed back, very politely. The giraffes looked over the other cages and down over the people. Oh, how tall they seemed, and Billy felt very small as he looked up at them.

After he had looked at them for awhile he went and talked to the monkeys and they answered him in their squealing little voices which Billy liked very much.

They ate popcorn which he gave them and they took it in their hands with delight. Then even more delightedly they put it in their mouths and chewed it and swallowed it!

Next Billy went to see the white-tailed Gnu and his brother.

They had white tails and they both looked cross and they shook their heads as though to say:

"We're not bowing to you. Most decidedly not. We're letting you know that we don't care whether you're here or not.

"We are from Africa, though now we travel around these parts."

Then the keeper who took care of the white-tailed Gnu and his brother told Billy that they were so cross they didn't even want to have their cages cleaned.

"They Both Looked Cross."

He said they ate grain and bread and hay and molasses, and so Billy knew that even though they did not act very pleasantly at least they liked some sweetness in their lives, and had, at least, what was known as a "sweet tooth."

How many, many people Billy had heard in his short lifetime say, when they had been offered a piece of candy:

"Well, thank you, I do believe I will have one. I must admit I've a sweet tooth."

Yes, Billy had heard that speech many a time. It seemed to be one well-liked, he had decided.

And so now he thought of it when he heard that these animals liked molasses so much.

Well, as he was looking about, the tallest man who was sitting upon the platform by the tallest lady began to speak.

The tallest lady had been selling pictures of herself and of the tallest man.

She had been saying:

"Now friends, don't you want a souvenir picture of the tallest man in the world? It costs but little and all your life you can show your friends the picture of the tallest man whom you have seen with your own eyes.

"Come, friends, who'll be the first to take advantage of this great and wonderful offer.

"Also I offer my own photograph for sale. I have signed it as well. Signed, you see, by the tallest lady in the world."

That was the way she had been talking and sometimes the smallest lady who was sitting nearby had smiled and nodded her head as much as to say,

"My time will come later."

She had smiled at Billy, too, and Billy had felt that was a great honor.

But now the tallest man was speaking.

"The big show is to begin in ten minutes, folks! Get into your seats for the big show. This department will be open after the big show is over.

The parade will start now in exactly nine minutes."

Billy thought he spoke as though he considered himself and the tallest lady and the others dress goods or notions or candy when he spoke of them as "this department," but everyone took the advice of the tallest man and started for the big tent.

And now everyone around, ticket man, program man, peanut man, everyone, began shouting:

"The big show is about to begin. Hurry, folks, for the big show."

And when the excitement of waiting just seemed almost too much to stand the band burst into music, the parade began. The big show was starting.

COOL, REFRESHING VEGETABLES

When the mercury is soaring up in the nineties, cooling dishes are the only ones that appeal to the appetite.

We must have vegetables to give our food the proper balance and if not hot and steaming, then it behooves us to find some way of making them appetizing without the heat.

These vegetables may be prepared in the early part of the day and when dinner time comes a steak may be broiled or a few chops and dinner-getting is a simple process.

With the wealth of delicious vegetables to be found at this season, one may have a pair for each dinner and never run low on ideas.

Peas are such a delectable vegetable that they may be served often in most families. One day cook them, dress them with cream, and serve in ripe tomato baskets. This dish not only gratifies the eye but will prove satisfying to the palate.

Peas in Aspic Jelly.—A pint of shelled peas will make six individual molds. Cook the peas in just enough water to cover them, adding a teaspoonful of sugar and a slice of onion; when tender drain and cool them. Soak one tablespoonful of gelatin in two tablespoonfuls of water, then add one and one-half cupfuls of nicely seasoned meat stock, or canned bouillon, boiling hot. Stir until the gelatin is well dissolved, then strain and chill but do not let it come to the point of congealing. Add the peas and a tablespoonful of chopped red pepper, stir occasionally until the jelly begins to thicken. Pour into molds wet with cold water and place on ice. Serve turned on sliced cucumbers dipped in French dressing or on water cress.

Mousse of Peas.—Cook a pint of peas as above, and when tender put through a sieve; add one cupful of thick white sauce, one tablespoonful of gelatin softened in cold water, one beaten egg, salt, paprika and white pepper to taste. When cool fold in a cupful of whipped cream and pour into little ramekins to chill. When serving garnish with a point of whipped cream topped with minced parsley.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.

ARE YOU MAKING A LIVING OR A LIFE?

When I heard a speaker ask the question, "Are you making a living or are you making a life?" it certainly made me think of myself and of others.

Now I have no desire to enter into the field of psychology, but the psychologist will be the first to admit that the condition of that body of yours is the answer to both questions.

We've all got to earn a living, and like the fleas on Mark Twain's dog, the earning of that living is one of nature's ways of making us move about and take exercise, thus creating an appetite and also making bathing and sleeping a necessary factor in our lives.

By the "sweat of the brow" we were to earn our bread. So nature behooves that if we do not sweat by working we must do it by playing or exercising.

That body of yours demands it.

But after all the making of a life is a higher thing than making a living because we haven't got to make the life, that is a higher life. And what do I mean by a higher life?

Simply what you get by doing something else besides working. It may be playing, reading, the intensive study of something, welfare work for others, anything that just lifts you out and away from the everyday toil and work.

Now what's all this got to do with that body of yours?

Everything.

If you keep it in good shape by seeing that it gets the right quantity and quality of food, that it is worked or exercised and bathed, that nothing intereferes with the throwing off of the wastes of the body by the skin, kidneys, intestine and breath, then it will do its proper work for you.

You see if the body isn't in good condition, by the time you have done the ordinary toil or work of the day, there is no strength or energy left for anything else.

You cannot enjoy a play, a game or recreation of any kind. You have no desire for study, and the need of others does not enter your head. You are simply making a living and that is all you are doing.

My thought is that everybody should have a "plus" life. It should not be a "minus" nor should it be just a "zero."

There's only one way to get the "plus" life and that is by going after it. Remember your body gives you everything because your body includes your brain and thought and aspirations.

So get it functioning. Work it, play or exercise with it, make it obey your bidding.

It is a wonderful mechanism and pays or repays as you use or abuse it.

How Twigs Breathe.

Every mark on a twig has a meaning in the life of a tree, says Nature Magazine. The tiny dots scattered hit-or-miss over the twigs are its breathing pores. Day and night, winter and summer, the tree breathes in oxygen and gives off carbon dioxide. The great work of spring and summer requires much additional breathing space which the leaves furnish.

PICKING LEADERS OF LEGISLATURE

Cuvillier to Contest for Democratic Leadership in Assembly Against Bloch, Choice of Tammany.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 11.—Echoes of a contest between Assembly Maurice Bloch and Louis A. Cuvillier, both of New York, for Democratic leader of the 1924 Assembly, already have reached the state capital.

According to word from New York, the "powers that be" have selected Mr. Bloch to succeed Assemblyman Charles D. Donohue who declined a renomination so that he might be a candidate for the supreme court bench in New York city.

Report has it, however, that Mr. Cuvillier, father of the law repealing the Mullan-Gage state prohibition enforcement act, feels he is entitled to the honor. During the last session of the legislature Mr. Cuvillier confided to close friends he would make a fight for the post of Democratic leader in the event that Mr. Donohue did not return.

Mr. Bloch has been a member of the lower house for nine years, but so has Mr. Cuvillier. Because of Cuvillier's active part in every debate, he has been referred to by newspapermen for the last few years as the "assistant minority leader."

It is reported that Mr. Cuvillier feels that his bill repealing the Mullan-Gage law is of sufficient importance to entitle him to consideration when the honors at the next session are being handed out.

But, it is said, the Democratic leaders do not think Mr. Cuvillier has been "regular" enough in the last few sessions to entitle him to the post of leader of the lower house. Friends of Mr. Bloch contend that on several occasions in the last few sessions Mr. Cuvillier has voted with the Republicans against Democratic measures.

At the capitol it had been generally understood that Assemblyman John J. O'Connor of New York, was to succeed Mr. Donohue, but he has been designated for a seat in Congress. This leaves the field open to Bloch and Cuvillier, with the odds slightly favoring the former at this early stage of the political battle that is to come this fall.

If Assemblyman Simon L. Adler of Rochester, is reelected, in all probability he will again be chosen as floor leader of the Republicans.

DANTE MYSTIFIES LARGE AUDIENCE

Dante, European magician, who is starring the United States under the direction of Howard Thurston, himself a magician, opened a three days engagement at the Opera House Monday. The big audience was completely mystified by Dante, who presents some of the most wonderful illusions, the most amazing tricks, the most unbelievable transformations and transfigurations and some of the deftest demonstrations of dexterity ever shown on the stage.

In addition to hundreds of feats of legerdemain and palming tricks, Dante has a score or more of the most pretentious of illusions and big acts of mystery, some of which are original with him and others of which were original with Kellar or with Thurston.

The Vampire is one of the mystifying acts offered. A dummy with a wooden head and bust supported on iron rods is wheeled on the stage and is draped in rich dress goods, a wig is placed on the wooden head and Dante then paints the face and features, and then powders it. The Vampire comes to life and dances and smilingly takes an encore.

Levitation acts are more or less familiar. Dante goes a step farther. After causing the body of a woman to rise several feet in the air where it is suspended with no visible means of support, he snaps his fingers and presto! the woman disappears in thin air! Several box and trunk tricks are shown and all equally astounding and mystifying. There are mysterious cabinets from which human beings disappear and others enter despite the fact that all sides of the cabinet are tightly closed and secured.

There is a weird ghost woman who answers any question that may be put to her; human beings, men, women and children, pass through space; wonderful water fountains are produced apparently at will from any part of the stage and from any object; a woman is sawed completely in halves and then is put back together and made whole again; and there are many more puzzling problems and mysteries left for the spectator to solve.

Dante will appear again tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night.

HIGH WOODS.

High Woods, Sept. 10.—The Labor Day fair of the High Woods Reformed Church was a gala day and attracted a crowd as usual. All roads seemed to lead to High Woods. Autos and wagons were filled and a large crowd gathered before the parade passed in view. The Glasco band came first making a fine showing in their pretty uniforms. Then a motorcycle trimmed with national colors, which was not the fastest things on wheels just then. Horsemen followed, while three stalwart men carried a large flag. Many autos and floats also were beautifully trimmed with our national colors. Others were trimmed with farm products and flowers. One float displayed the almost lost art of spinning flax while butter was churned for the supper tables. A family who was moving joined the parade also as they passed through the place. Daddy came on behind, trundling the baby in a wagon, he looked tired and warm as though his walk was almost too long on a hot day. Many pedestrians dressed in fancy and humorous outfits mingled in the parade. Sambo and Dinah came again from "Ole Virginny" and brought some of their "cullud sistahs" along. Some gypsies came along also just then, but did no fortune telling. After the parade the usual races were held which was an enjoyable time.

At the fancy booth an abundance of fancy and useful articles were found. Some were the handiwork of our own ladies while many articles came from friends afar for which people here extend sincere thanks. The saleslades were kept busy displaying and wrapping articles for kind purchasers. All the other booths resembled a bee colony in summer time as refreshments were handed out. In the church hall three long tables were set and filled with goodies for the inner man. They were well patronized until a late hour. The grounds and buildings were lighted by the Western Electric Company, supplied by Robert Harder of Katrine. A shower at night made it somewhat unpleasant for many who were still there. A small boy, Dickie Westphal, had his skull fractured by a passing auto. He was taken by Dr. Gifford to the Benedictine Hospital. His parents have all sympathy from neighbors and friends.

It is Old Home Day also and each year people here are glad to greet old schoolmates and friends. The receipts were nearly eleven hundred dollars, showing that as in former years the people had been very generous.

COLONIALS BATTING AT .283 CLIP; DAHN AND M'CUE LEAD INDIVIDUALS

Average of Team Shows Slight Decrease—But Two Players Hit Over .300 Mark—Dahn Leads With a Percentage of .325 and McCue Is Next at .303.

The batting average of the Colonials as a team to date is .283. This is a slight decrease in their batting average compared to the earlier part of the season. Although this average is not astounding, it is very good. The Schirickmen have been matched with the best semi-pro teams travelling through this section and have played a National League team, making a remarkable showing. Injuries and the partial services of others was what the local management had to contend with during this period. The quality of pitching the Colonials faced was much better than in the earlier part of the season. The fielding of the visiting teams was not up to the standard of former periods.

But two Colonial players are hitting over the three hundred mark. This is quite a reduction in the last couple of weeks before which time there were four or more hitting above this clip. Freddie Dahn is now leading the players at a .325 clip. McCue, who played in more games and was at bat more times than any other local player, is next with .303. Both these players have been hitting hard all season, with their averages always at the .300 mark.

The player's average that took the biggest drop recently is that of Bobby Coyle who is batting at .296. Coyle led his teammates for a long time in the early part of the season with his average hovering around the .350 count, but lately fell into a batting slump. Matty Deegan and Chad See are next in order each hitting at a .292 clip. Deegan has been steady in his hitting, having kept his average with a few points of the .300 mark during the whole season. Billy Schwab is leading the rest of the players who are below the .290 mark with an average of .288.

The complete averages of the players to date, who took part in nine or more games, is as follows:

Player	G.	A.B.	H.	Pct.
Dahn	66	249	81	.325
McCue	81	314	95	.303

GIANTS FIVE GAMES AHEAD; YANKS FOURTEEN

While the Pirates and Reds are battling among themselves, the Giants took advantage of the situation and increased their lead in the National league pennant race. Today the Giants are five games in front of the Pirates and five and a half games ahead of the Reds.

If the Giants win ten of their remaining 17 games the Pirates must win 15 of their 21 games and the Reds 15 of their remaining 20 games to prevent New York from winning the flag.

In the American League the Yanks have a lead of 14 games over the Indians this morning. If they win 12 of their remaining 24 games they will win the pennant even if Cleveland wins all of its remaining 26 games.

RESULTS IN E BATTERY LEAGUE

Monday evening Sergeant DuBois's Discipline Nine took another step toward the top of the E Battery indoor Baseball League ladder when they defeated Corporal Long's Trigger Squeeze squad to the merry tune of 21-17. The sergeant took the mound and was slow in warming up, but after he had reached the boiling point the corporal and his outfit were practically out of the game. Corporal Long showed two new moundsmen in. First he used Burns to good advantage, but Burns weakened rather slowly and he was taken out in the sixth and the other new-comer, Houghtaling, was brought to the limelight. Houghtaling allowed seven runs in the seventh and spoiled all chances of winning the game for the corporal. The corporal, who showed he knew when he saw a baseball player, stayed out of last night's contest as he proved to himself last week he was better on the lines coaching than playing.

The feature of the game was four homers by Freer, Melville, Corey and Bush, which were all to the sergeant's credit. The sergeant was very uncertain at times about winning the contest due to the numerous errors scored by his favorite left fielder, A. Ward. Ward is not a bad hitter as he was able to connect four out of six times to the plate and was assisted in scoring twice but he is very uncertain about throwing the ball when he has it knocked to him. The sergeant allowed two men to reach first by the free route and Burns stayed with him, also allowing two free passes while Houghtaling let one man get a walk. Houghtaling made a very nice play in the eighth when he was able to score a double play unassisted.

Relyea was quite handy at times making many assists and helping the corporal's outfit out of many a tight fit although he could not seem to score over one run, but was on the bases four times out of six tries, and was left stranded on the sacks three times. The sergeant had ten men die on the bags, while the corporal, to keep harmony, left the same number stranded. It was not until the lucky seventh that the tables turned on the corporal's squad and allowed the sergeant's quintet to forge ahead, which finally resulted in the defeat of the Trigger Squeeze nine.

The next game will be played at the armory Monday evening, September 17, between the fast Discipline nine and Sergeant Cunningham's Cock and Aim nine, the favorites of the league.

How to tell for sure—what oil your car needs To the Man who owns a Ford

In design, construction, operation, and lubrication, the Ford is unique. The engine oil must adequately and efficientiy lubricate both transmission and multiple disc clutch. In Ford engine lubrication the following points must be considered:

(1)—The Ford connecting rod bearings have no oil holes or oil grooves, nor are the lower ends of the connecting rods equipped with oil dippers or splashers. Hence the need for oil which atomizes readily and distributes freely throughout the entire bearing area.

(2)—The Ford pistons over-run the valve seat level. Any excess of oil carried up by the pistons readily finds its way onto the valves and seats. Hence the need of a clean-burning and non-carbon forming lubricant. Otherwise gumming of the valves results.

(3)—The Ford Planetary transmission operates in a bath of engine oil. The close-fitting sleeves and bushings demand a free-flowing oil of correct body to insure thorough distribution to these parts.

(4)—The Ford multiple disc clutch operates continually in a bath of engine oil. A free-flowing oil of the correct body and character is necessary to assure positive, quick engagement with no slipping and an instantaneous release of the clutch without dragging.

(5)—Chattering of Ford transmission bands comes from incorrectly adjusted bands or worn out linings, and is aggravated by unburned fuel mixed with the lubricating oil. In such cases the diluted oil should be replaced with fresh oil and the bands correctly adjusted or the linings renewed. To attempt to remedy such mechanical conditions by the use of so-called "anti-chattering" oils containing foreign material which may separate, or lard oil, wool grease or other animal fats which decompose under heat, is obviously wrong and likely to cause gumming of the valve stems, carbon deposit and other troubles.

Gargoyle Mobiloil "E" is free from foreign material or animal fats. It is of the correct body, character and fluidity and especially manufactured to scientifically meet the exacting requirements of Ford cars both summer and winter.

a Buick

Your Buick engine, because of its large reserve horse-power and efficient cooling system, operates at comparatively low temperatures.

With Buick valve-in-head construction the cooling area of the combustion chambers is relatively small. This, together with compression pressure of 75 lbs. makes this engine sensitive to any appreciable carbon deposits, particularly in view of the present day fuels. Where excessive carbon deposits exist, "pinging" or knocking results. To minimize carbon deposits under these conditions, your engine requires a well refined, clean burning oil which will be thoroughly distributed by the lubricating system.

For all Buick models (except 1923) use Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic both summer and winter.

The 1923 Buick engine differs from previous models, in so far as lubrication is concerned. The splash troughs are covered, leaving a slot through which the splash dipper passes to project the lubricant. This baffled splash trough design appreciably reduces the quantity of oil distributed so that the lubricating oil will not splash to the cylinders in excess quantities or reach the combustion chambers too freely.

The two center crankshaft bearings are supplied with oil under pressure.

These changes in the 1923 Buick construction permit the use in summer of an oil heavier in body and richer in character than heretofore without the possibility of objectionable carbon accumulations.

Hence, for the 1923 Buick, Gargoyle Mobiloil "A" in summer and Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic in winter will insure correct lubrication.

a Chevrolet 490

Your Chevrolet 490 engine is of valve-in-head construction and designed for high compression pressures of approximately 87 pounds.

The lubricating system is of the splash circulating type. The gear type oil pump is in an exposed position directly in back of the radiator, and is considerably above the level of the oil in the reservoir. There are long lengths of exposed oil piping on both the suction and discharge sides of the pump.

All engine parts except the centre crankshaft bearing are lubricated by an oil mist caused by the dipping of the connecting rod splashers in the oil troughs provided under each cylinder. Oil is forced under pressure to the centre crankshaft bearing.

Carbon deposits in this engine, because of the high compression pressures and combustion chamber construction, are particularly objectionable. Correct lubrication is essential to the maintenance of high efficiency. Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic will leave a minimum of carbon deposits, and is of the correct body and character to provide adequate engine lubrication under all operating conditions.

The use of Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic both summer and winter will assure correct engine lubrication and lead to the satisfactory performance you have a right to expect of your Chevrolet.

a Studebaker

(Big Six—Special Six—Light Six Models)

Studebaker engines are of the six-cylinder, four-stroke, cycle, vertical type. The cylinder head is detachable and the valve arrangement is of the L-head type.

Studebaker pistons are equipped with a special oil-return groove and oil drain holes which allow excess quantities of oil on the cylinder walls to drain back into the crank-case reservoir.

The Studebaker lubricating system is of the splash circulating type, employing a gear type oil pump located on the outside of the crank-case and considerably above the oil level.

The lubrication of the cylinder walls, the pistons, piston rings, and piston pin bearings depends upon an oil mist. This mist is created by splashers fitted on the lower side of the connecting rod bearings dipping into oil in troughs located under each cylinder bore.

A suitable lubricant for these engines must be of such body and character as to meet the operating temperature and distribution requirements.

Gargoyle Mobiloil "A" will provide adequate engine lubrication and thorough distribution during summer; its use is therefore recommended.

Because of the well-finished cylinder bores, close-fitting pistons and the adequate drainage of these pistons, Gargoyle Mobiloil "A" will not form objectionable carbon deposits and a thorough and efficient sealing of the piston rings will be assured.

Under winter operation, it is imperative that the oil used be of the proper fluidity to provide a positive priming of the elevated oil pump. Otherwise, failure of the pump to deliver oil to the engine will result.

Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic is of the proper body to assure positive priming of the Studebaker pump under winter operation. Because of its character and fluidity, it will atomize readily and thoroughly, thus providing proper distribution to all engine parts, even when freezing temperatures are experienced.

Gargoyle Mobiloil "A" and Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic respectively are best suited to the summer and winter lubrication requirements of these engines. Their use will insure maximum engine performance with a minimum of wear and depreciation.

a Dodge

Your Dodge engine is of the four-cylinder, vertical, L-head type, bore 3⅜", stroke 4½". It is equipped with a splash circulating system of lubrication employing a vane pump located above the oil level.

Oil distribution is effected by dippers on the lower ends of the connecting rods. These dip into the oil in the splash troughs and project it to all friction surfaces within the engine. Small holes above the dippers are provided to convey the oil into the crank pin bearings.

On all Dodge engines, prior to 1923, cast iron pistons were used. Because of the present day fuels, comparatively small carbon deposits in these engines quickly result in "pinging" or knocking.

It is of utmost importance, therefore, that a clean burning oil be used in these engines, under all operating conditions in order to eliminate the tendency toward excessive carbon accumulations. Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic meets these requirements as this oil is of sufficient body to assure thorough engine lubrication and is of such character as to burn with a minimum of carbon deposits.

The 1923 Dodge engine uses a special type of constant clearance, aluminum alloy piston. The chief factor for consideration from a lubrication standpoint is, that they result in much lower piston head temperatures, thus minimizing carbon formations and in turn, the knocking or "pinging," tendency of an engine.

For this reason, Gargoyle Mobiloil "A" of a richer lubricating character than Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic, can be used in these engines to advantage during summer. This change in piston design counteracts the conditions which in the previous models made the engine sensitive to carbon formation.

During summer Gargoyle Mobiloil "A" should be used in the 1923 models; in all earlier models, Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic should be used.

During winter, because of the elevated exposed location of the oil pump, it is necessary to use an oil of the proper fluidity, to provide positive pump priming. Gargoyle Mobiloil Arctic should be used during winter in all models.

Don't say: "Give me a quart of oil" Ask for

FAIR RETAIL PRICE—30c A QUART

When the dealer sells a quart of Gargoyle Mobiloil for less than 30c, he does not make his fair, reasonable profit. Lower prices often accompany substitution of low-quality oil for genuine Gargoyle Mobiloil.

Prices are slightly higher in Canada, the Southwest, and the Far West.

TO OWNERS OF ALL CARS

It is far more beneficial to the engine if you add a small quantity of oil every day rather than larger quantities at less frequent intervals. Careful car operators, taxicab companies, and owners of motor truck fleets make it a practice to see that the oil is at the proper level every morning before the car goes out. With a five gallon can or fifteen or thirty gallon drum of the correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil on hand, you will always be ready to give your car this valuable attention.

The crank-case should be entirely drained of oil at least every one thousand miles in summer and every five hundred miles in winter. When draining the oil, the removable screen (if your car has one) should also be cleaned. Draw off the old oil when the engine is warm, as the oil then flows more freely and tends to wash out any foreign matter. (Never flush the crank-case with kerosene.) Then refill with correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil.

If your car has not been mentioned here, see our complete Chart of automobile recommendations. Garages and dealers have this Chart on their walls. It appears also in our booklet, "CORRECT LUBRICATION," which we will gladly send you on request. Address our nearest branch.

ALBANIA REJECTS ITALIAN DEMAND

For Tellini Assassins—Says They Were Greeks and if Necessary She Will Go Into Greece and Get Them.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 11.—Albania has rejected the Italian ultimatum that the assassins of General Tellini, Italian president of the Albanian boundary commission, be delivered up within five days, said a dispatch from Athens today.

The Albanian government declared it has information that the assassins were Greeks and that, if Greece does not arrest them, Albanian police will cross the frontier into Greece and do so.

The Balkan situation is becoming more acute The Central News correspondent in Athens reports that Italian warships are landing war materials at Varna for the Macedonians. There is much restlessness throughout the Balkans, especially in Macedonia, where the Comitadji (irregulars) are threatening their neighbors

Corfu reports that Italian troops have occupied Leros "at the request of 500 inhabitants who were without food and feared famine"

INQUIRY INTO DESTROYER WRECK

Effort Today to Penetrate Young's Hull, Where Bodies of Most of 23 Dear Are Believed to Lie—Boats Total Wrecks.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Sept. 11.—An official board of inquiry, composed of Rear Admiral W. V. Pratt, commander of the fourth division of the battle fleet, senior member; Captain George C. Day, commander of the Pacific submarine division, and Captain David C. Sellers, of the naval training station at San Diego, is today investigating the naval tragedy in which seven United States destroyers crashed upon the sharp reefs two miles from Point Arguello, in a dense fog Saturday night.

The naval probe board was appointed by Admiral S. S. Robinson, commander of the battle fleet, now stationed in San Francisco harbor.

One identified dead, 22 missing and believed dead, and 13 injured is the toll taken when the fleet destroyers Young, Chauncey, Delphy, Fuller, Nicholas, S. P. Lee and Woodbury piled on the treacherous rocks, known as the Devil's Jaw, 75 miles north of here.

All officers and men of the destroyers S. P. Lee, Chauncey, Muller, Woodbury and Nicholas have been accounted for. Those lost are of the personnel of the Young and Delphy.

The dead:

W. A. Conroy, fireman, first class, Delphy.

Twenty-one seamen from the Young, which turned on her side almost immediately after striking the rocks, are missing and believed to have met death. One missing from the Delphy.

Thirteen are patients at the Cottage Hospital here, more or less seriously injured. Among the injured are:

Harry Kruse, Delphy, contusions, Chicago.

John Beck, of the Young, St. Paul, Minn.

Joan King, Delphy, Mulga, Ala., shock.

M. G. Scherer, Young, Missouri, shock.

Gilbert Bauschman, Delphy, Cypress Hills, N. Y., contusions and abrasions on both legs.

W. C. McGehy, Delphy Astoria, Long Island, blinded by oil; contusions of body.

Arthur Lund, Delphy, Jamestown, N. Y., deep cuts and abrasions.

Another effort will be made to release the bodies believed to be imprisoned in the compartments of the Young. Heavy seas yesterday frustrated all efforts of the rescuers to gain a vantage point about the hull.

All seven destroyers are still on the rocks pounding to pieces. About 30 miles from the wreck is the steamer Cuba, which grounded Saturday, edged between rocks on this strip of treacherous coast line, and being gradually reduced to wreckage. Her passengers and crew were saved.

The Delphy was cut in two aft the torpedo deck, while the Young is on her beam ends. Other vessels of the flotilla are promiscuously strewn nearby, just about 200 yards from the shore.

"To the courage and discipline of American sailors must be given credit for the fact that but 23 men lost their lives in the wreck instead of 400", said Captain E. H. Watson, commander of the destroyer fotilla.

"To command such men is a pleasure and to share danger with them is an honor", is the tribute paid by Captain Watson for the splendid discipline of the men under stress.

Speaking of the wreck, Captain Watson said:

"We had been in battle formation, but as night came on and the fog thickened, we fell into single column at about 20 knots an hour. The sea was very heavy and the fog so dense it was impossible to see the bow of the Delphy. When we struck there was not time to give warning. We did, however, blow a danger blast, and then came the crash.

STATE NEEDS THREE BILLION NEW TREES

Interesting studies have been completed by E. C. Filler, U. S. Forest Service, based on data gathered and published by R. V. Reynolds, U. S. Forest Service and Prof. R. J. Hoyle, New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse University, relative to the Wood Using Industries in New York. The statistics cover the period from 1912 to 1919. A summary of the pine consumed in 1919 by the industries in the state according to the charts prepared by Mr. Filler shows that 27.1 per cent of all the species used by the secondary wood-working industries—industries that use planed lumber—was white pine.

New York state grew 6.8 per cent of the pine used in 1919; 93.2 per cent had to be imported. Comparative figures show that of all species consumed in 1912 the state grew 31 per cent and of all species used in 1919 the amount of state grown timber had fallen to 14.7 per cent. In eastern white pine the computations for the same period indicate that the quantity grown in proportion to that used by these industries in the state decreased from 37 per cent to 7.1 per cent and that for five needle pines the decrease was from 36.9 per cent to 6.7 per cent. The rapid dimunition in timber caused New York state to lose 35 per cent of her wood-working industries between 1912 and 1919.

After these figures have been deduced from the college bulletin Mr. Filler finds in another chart that there are 3,313,455 acres on farms absolutely barren of both farm crops and timber. Out of the approximately 12,000,000 acres of forest land of all kinds, productive and non-productive, in the Empire state, practically none of it is under scientific management.

This vast tract capable of raising forests at maximum yield is allowed to exist, some in waste land and some in indifferent forests, as the accident of nature may happen to provide, while prices of all wood products are on a general trend upward and industries are migrating to states where the supply of wood is more plentiful. At least three billion forest trees should be planted in New York state right away.

ANDERSON ATTACKS COL. ROOSEVELT

For Refusing to Take Stump Here For J. Wells Weaver at Request of Latter's Women Backing.

This morning's New York Times says:

Theodore Roosevelt assistant secretary of the navy, who is accepted by a numerically strong group within the Republican state organization as the most avilable man for the gubernatorial nomination next year, was attacked yesterday by William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, in a statement sent to every newspaper in the state.

Anderson based his attack on a communication recently sent to Colonel Roosevelt and asking him to come to Ulster county and help out in a fight which is being waged there for the nomination of a pronounced "dry," J. Wells Weaver, a prominent apple grower of Clintondale, as candidate for the assembly in the Republican primaries against the regular nominee. The letter to Colonel Roosevelt was signed by the Women's Harding Republican Club of Ulster County, and from the statement made by Mr. Anderson it would appear that Colonel Roosevelt had failed to reply to the letter.

In his statement Superintendent Anderson said:

"I have received from the officials of the Women's Harding Republican Club of Ulster County a copy of a letter which they sent on September 2 to Theodore Roosevelt, wet organization candidate for the Republican nomination for governor next year, which I am advised they are today making public in Ulster county after waiting over a week for reply.

"The league will probably take steps to smoke Colonel Roosevelt out in any event, in order to show the people of the state the extent to which he and his backers are now helping Tammany, following the precedent established by him when he voted for Governor Smith's nullification beer act three years ago, which was so promptly invalidated by the supreme court of the United States.

"It will be noted that, in this refusal, Colonel Roosevelt is again lining up with Tammany and in repudiation of the administration and policy of President Harding who appointed him assistant secretary of the navy. Also that, in his vote for nullification, which stands as his record on the question, he is at variance with President Coolidge, who, when governor of Massachusetts, vetoed a beer act about the same time that Governor Smith signed it and Colonel Roosevelt was helping the Tammany governor put it through."

The Ulster club women said in their letter:

"It is understood that you will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of New York next year.

"It is possible for you to make your attitude clear on the question of law enforcement in a practical way which will encourage the high expectations of the many admirers of your great father, as a mere incident to assistance in upholding the law and to keeping the Republican party in New York state true to the principles enunciated by your late chief, President Harding.

"Therefore, the Women's Harding Republican Club of Ulster County wish to vindicate patriotism, and for the credit and protection of the Republican party is favoring the nomination of an assemblyman who represents the sentiments not only of the party nationally but of the county affected, respectfully requests you to come to Ulster county at least once during the primary campaign and make an address at the most strategic point in favor of the candidacy of the man who stands for restoring the enforcement law which was enacted by the Republican state administration.

"If, as is quite conceivable, pressure of your official duties at Washington precludes the possibility of your coming, then we request that you send at an early date, in order that it may be published in connection with the primary campaign, a statement of your belief that as between two candidates, both claiming to be Republicans, one of whom has allied himself with Tammany and nullification and voted to repudiate the acts of the former state administration of his own party on the one hand, and the other candidate, who stands with our party both nationally and locally and who is in favor of action which will continue to entitle the Republican party to the support of the moral element which was so strongly behind your father, that you believe the party should nominate the latter sort of candidate, provided you do so believe."

Meaning of "Hague."

In the Dutch language Hague means hedge. The name of the capital, therefore, is The Hedge, given to the spot centuries ago when it was a hunting lodge of the counts of Holland. The Dutch people, or more properly the Hollanders, have a great liking for ornamental hedges.

F. Edson White, Jr.

F. Edson White, Jr., of Chicago youthful son of the president of Armour & Co., while hunting on his father's estate, near Chicago, was set upon by one of his father's prize bulls and was accidentally shot to death by the discharge of his gun, which he clubbed to beat off the enraged animal.

ACCIDENT ON QUARRYVILLE HILL

A motorcycle operated by W. H. Withins of Springfield, Mass., ran into the Chevrolet car of W. H. Wolven of Rensselaer at the foot of the Quarryville hill about 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The collision threw the Chevrolet into a ditch. Miss Laurel Wolven, aged 17, one of the occupants of the car, was hurled under the car and received severe injuries to one of her legs. The other occupants of the car were not injured. Dr. R. F. Diedling of Saugerties dressed the wounds of the injured girl.

Mr. Withins was thrown from his motorcycle and was badly hurt, Dr. B. W. Gifford attended him. He received a severe cut on the chin, teeth were knocked out and he sustained a possible fracture of the right leg. Later he was taken to the Benedictine Hospital.

Both motorcycle and car were badly damaged and were towed to Snyder's Garage in Saugerties. Mr. Withins stated that he would pay the damages.

TELLS WHY CHURNS ARE MADE OF WOOD

As a Non-Conductor of Heat It Has Advantages Over Metal.

Maybe the small boy, wearily turning the churn handle on the shady back porch, wonders why churns are made of wood. Posibly other folks have wondered similarly; but the dairymen at Cornell have the answer.

Nearly all churns are made of wood, they say, because wood is a good non-conductor of heat. They add that metal churns may be more sanitary than wooden churns but they are more impracticable because the fat adheres to them, and because it is more difficult to control the temperature in metal churns.

Temperature is the most important influence on churning, because the butter fat globule should be warm enough to stick together but should not be so warm as to become greasy and to leave too much fat in the buttermilk. Generally speaking, sixty degrees Fahrenheit is about right for a good churning.

Other important steps in making butter, besides having the cream in the right temperature, include sterilizations of the churn and all the utensils and pouring the cream into the churn through a strainer.

After the churning is completed it should be remembered that the purpose of working the butter is mainly to distribute salt and only secondary to compact the butter. In working butter by hand the college advises against giving the ladies a sliding motion over the butter as this will tend to make the butter greasy.

All of these points are covered in a bulletin, F60, on "Farm Butter Making," which tells not only about making butter but about marketing butter and some of its by-products such as buttermilk and cottage cheese.

AGGIE AND GLISTA WILL BE AT DAIRY EXPOSITION

Did you ever know that fountain pens, hair combs, airplane glue and a variety of other articles, can be and are made from milk?

The fact is that milk, the greatest food product in the world, is used for a variety of unusual purposes. Many of them will be shown at the National Dairy exposition on the state fair grounds at Syracuse, October 5-13.

The big $10,000 exhibit of the New York state department of farms and markets will show in detail these striking uses of the dairy farmer's product, which promise to help materially in solving the baffling "surplus problem".

A feature of the exhibit will be a life-sized bust of Governor Alfred E. Smith modelled entirely from the finest of New York state butter by a prominent sciptor. It will be displayed in a windowed refrigerator.

The dislay will also contain "Aggie," the state's leading grade cow, with a yearly production of more than 25,000 pounds of milk, owned by S. W. Barber of Scottsburg, N. Y., and "Glista Ernestine," the great record purebred Holstein owned by the state college of agriculture at Ithaca.

Visitors will be shown the value of scientific rations in increasing milk production, how to grade up a herd economically and many other practical and inexpensive methods. Every dairy product of the state will be shown, as well as all farm products marketed cooperatively.

ROBERT MAIN BUYS ALBANY AVENUE HOME

Van Keuren. Mr. Main will make his home in this city. With her son, Willard, who is bookkeeper at the First National Bank, Mrs. Van Keuren will board in the upper part of the city.

Reality and Pretense.

The great difference between the real statesman and the pretender is that the one sees into the future, while the other regards only the present; the one lives by the day, and acts in expediency; the other acts on enduring principles and for immortality.—Burke.

I herewith wish to express my heartiest thanks to all friends and neighbors who were so kind during the illness of my dear mother, Mrs. Alviena Lieske. Especially, do I thank Fitzpatrick & Draper's, the fellows and girls of the machine department of Van Slyke & Horton and the members of the club, and all others for their beautiful floral tributes.

THE ETHICAL SERVICE BUSINESS RENDERS

BY J. H. PUELICHER

President of the American Bankers Association

I sometimes think we lay too much stress on the technical efficiency of our business instrumentalities and too little on their moral services.

J. H. Puelicher

Is it enough to say to our radical opponents of the present capitalistic order that it effectively feeds and clothes and houses and furnishes us with physical comforts and pleasures and therefore it is good? That is not enough. They can rightfully tell us that, even though a system may minister to our physical well-being, if it stunts us morally, if it does not positively make us better ethically, it is an inadequate system.

The general answer to this assertion is obvious. The very fact that our industry, commerce and finance serve us so amply with the materials and means for physical well-being gives us the opportunity to build and support our churches, to foster the arts, to develop our great educational system,—to be kind to one another.

But need we deal in generalities? Do we not find in the direct effect of our business upon the individual much to improve his ethical standards? To toughen his moral fiber? Is it not good for the personal character of the race to do business as we are now doing it?

Let us take the business of banking, for example. Is it a mere mechanism or is it a vital moral force? Does it do more than, by facilitating production, raise the physical standard of living, or is there anything inherent in the manner and methods of banking that raises the moral standard of living as well?

Nine-tenths of our business is done by means of credit. The great bulk of that credit is obtained from the banks. It is obtained from the banks because men have character,—because they are honest, because they keep faith,—because they can be trusted.

If they did not have these qualities they could not do business with credit, they could not do business at the banks. We say banks deal in credit. That is but a way of saying they deal in honor and honesty. They build the business structure with the faith of man in man.

The most hopeful sign in our business life is growing. That means that the faith of men in each other is growing. The more men who come to the banks with characters that entitle them to credit,—the more men who realize that to gain credit at the banks, they must possess themselves with characters that win them unquestioned trust, the higher becomes the ethical standards of the nation.

Is not this a great moral service that banking renders? It is a greater justification for our present financial system than even its wonderful efficiency in providing us with the material things of life. No greater service could be rendered the nation.

AMERICA'S NEW PLACE

Many Americans fancy that, because labor is well employed and our industries have been reporting substantial earnings and improvement over the depression period, normalcy has been restored. The truth is, what we must consider normal in the future will be an entirely different thing from what was considered normal prior to the war. One reason is, our new place in the world as the leading creditor nation. That change is a permanent one. We are not going to return to the old position of debtor nation. Bankers in the agricultural communities have come to the conclusion that we cannot afford to maintain an attitude of isolation and that opinion is not a personal one. The men I have talked with are voicing the ideas of the people with whom they have daily business contact.

A great many politico-economists have warned against America's entrance into the European situation, asserting that our foreign trade makes up less than 20 per cent of our production, and therefore is too small an item to be vital or to risk our investment in. They forget, and most people who have listened to them forget, that the unimportant 20 per cent is the difference between full employment of our industries and labor and much unemployment and business depression. If a manufacturing enterprise is running at 90 per cent of capacity, it may be making a fairly good showing of earnings, but it is not running at normal and is not earning the margin which it should earn in order to be fully prosperous. It appears obvious that we shall have to build up foreign investments in this country. But it will be necessary to go slowly in the matter of foreign investments. There must be assurance that whatever we loan will be used for productive purposes.—William E. Knox, Second Vice-President, American Bankers Association.

NO ALL-NIGHT PARKING ALLOWED

Several months ago the board of public works decided to instruct the police department to prohibit the use of the public streets for all-night parking of automobiles and other vehicles, but no ordinance was formally adopted to that effect. However, the common council about forty-five years ago adopted an ordinance that prohibited the parking of vehicles on the streets either in the day or night time unless in actual use, and the police have been working under that old ordinance which is still in force and effect.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood stated today that while no arrests have been made for all-night parking the old ordinance has been used successfully in enforcing traffic conditions in the city, and where traffic was blocked by all-night parking of automobiles and trucks, as well as other vehicles, the police have forced the owner to remove the obstruction.

Those who use the streets at night know of many cases where cars are parked on the side streets all night instead of being placed in garages, and with the annual increase in the number of automobiles used in Kingston it will be necessary that the old ordinance be more strictly enforced.

MAYOR HYLAN MUCH BETTER

Doctors Now Hope He is On Way to Recovery—Sleeping and Eating Well.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Saratoga Springs, Sept. 11.—Physicians attending Mayor John F. Hylan of New York, declared today his improvement during the last 24 hours had been remarkable—they are now hopeful that he is well on his way to recovery.

The executive of New York city was so much improved at 11 a. m., when the doctors held their consultation that the mayor called for some of the most important correspondence which had been sent down here to him. Then he directed what replies should be made to his son-in-law, John F. Sinnott.

No formal bulletin was issued by the doctors this morning but they announced to newspaper men that his temperature was 98.3; pulse, 100; respiration, 24.

Dr. Frank J. Monahan, one of the mayor's physicians, said:

"The mayor is feeling so well this morning that he is superintending the erection in his room of an electric spray for spraying his nose and throat. Practically all the pain has gone from him and so has all the discomfort, and he is in wonderful condition, all things considered."

Thereafter Monahan and the mayor's son-in-law went for a round of golf.

Mayor Hylan spent the night in natural sleep and ate heartily in the morning, and when the doctors arrived, insisted they should hurry his recovery so "he could get back" in New York.

WARD AND KIN NOT TO TESTIFY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The trial of Walter S. Ward, son of the millionaire baker, George Ward, accused of the murder of Clarence Peters, Haverhill, Mass., sailor, is to be one of the most bitterly contested legal battles of recent years, Attorney General Carl Sherman and Judge Mills, for the defense, said here today.

Hearing of the case is to open tomorrow when 150 prospective jurymen will be called before Supreme Court Justice Wagner. The selection of the jury probably will take three days.

That Ward would not take the witness stand in his own defense was the opinion of state's attorneys today. It was believed Ward's wife and his father would not be present during the trial. Both, it has been charged, have remained away from New York during recent months, seeking to keep from testifying before the grand jury which recently indicted the accused man.

Judge Mills was confident his client would be acquitted.

FRIENDS NURSING COOLIDGE BOOM

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Quietly and without any tooting of horns the friends of Calvin Coolidge have begun to lay the groundwork for his nomination by the Republican convention ten months hence. The work is getting under way.

That he will be a candidate to succeed himself is now accepted as a fact by all political factions within the party and by even the most casual political observers as well.

Mr. Harding had a "personal" organization of loyal friends and admirers that was at once the admiration and despair of other aspirants, and it is perhaps significant that a great many of these have seen fit to declare their support of the new president for 1924.

In the past two weeks many political leaders have passed in and out of the White House. Almost all come out with the private conviction or publicly, that Mr. Coolidge will be a candidate and most of them added their belief that he will be nominated.

Nurses' Meeting Friday.

EXPECT GREAT THINGS in the NEW CADILLAC

Even the superb quality which you have long associated with the name Cadillac is no adequate measure of the merits of the New V-63.

The simple truth is that Cadillac has advanced its own standards and achieved, in this car, heights of quality which are strictly new.

Your attention is directed, particularly, to these three elements:—

The New Cadillac V-Type 90°, 8-cylinder engine — harmonized and balanced by entirely new principles of design to a degree of smoothness unapproached in automotive manufacture.

New Body Styles — destined by their graceful, symmetrical design, distinctive finish and exquisite appointments, to be the center of admiration in any company.

Cadillac 4 Wheel Brakes — a safety factor developed with the care and thoroughness characteristic of Cadillac engineering.

New delights await you also in enhanced dependability, ease of control, riding restfulness and, indeed, in every phase of car performance.

It is entirely logical that Cadillac, pioneer-leader of eight-cylinder manufacture in America, should now raise multi-cylinder practice to an even higher pitch of excellence.

This is exactly what has happened in the New V-63, and Cadillac urges you to approach this fine car with great expectations.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

Reginald Denny is the star of "The Abysmal Brute," the Universal-Jewel special production which opened yesterday at Keeneys theater, and which will be shown for the last times tonight.

Dante, prestidigitateur extraordinary, is at the Opera House until Thursday when Douglas Fairbanks in "Robin Hood", comes for three-day stay. This is a film on a vast scale, with lavish "extra", thousands of plumed knights and other people of the time of Richard The Lion Heart and many episodes of the days of chivalry and crusades.

William de Mille's admirable Paramount picturization of the stage success "Only 38" was shown for the first time to an enthusiastic audience at the Orpheum Theatre yesterday. This production is quite different from most motion pictures in that the story deals with the character development of a widow of thirty-eight who because of the puritanical ideas of her dead husband and family, has come to believe herself old. The complications which arise from her many endeavors to find happiness and contentment furnish the situations of the story. Harold Lloyd in "Dr. Jack" also pleased greatly.

The Auditorium will show "The Hidden Thing," episode three of Pearl White's new Pathserial, "Plunder," starting today. In this chapter Pearl encounters new hazards, attempting to solve the mystery of the Central Building stock and beat Jude Deering at his own game. The feature today is Shirley Mason in "Youth Must Have Love."

SNODGRASS AND RICHARDS TO PLAY FEATURE MATCH.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Thrills in the second round of the national tennis singles tournament at the Germantown Cricket Club today promised to come in the fourth quarter of the draw where Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, is the seeded player.

Harvey Snodgrass, California's newest sensation, meets the young star. The other feature match brought together Jean La Costa, the French youth, and Francis T. Hunter of New York, the runner-up at Wimbledon. Snodgrass has a victory over Richards to his credit at Newport.

William T. Tilden, the national champion, faced a comparatively easy match in the upper bracket with C. A. Major of New York, and William M. Johnston, the world's champion, was expected to encounter little difficulty with Jose Alonzo of Spain in the lower half.

The other seeded players, R. Norris Williams of Philadelphia, B. I. C. Norton of South Africa, in the second quarter of the draw, were bracketed with Claude Butlin of Mexico and Philip Neer, the California collegiate star. Neer is expected to extend Norton, but little is known of Butlin's game.

Rosh Hashana Being Observed.

Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, was generally observed by the Jews in this city today, there being services in the synagogues and devotions in the homes. The business sections presented a rather quiet appearance with all Jewish places of business closed.

MILTON IS AROUSED BY RECKLESS DRIVERS

The residents of Milton are clamoring for the rigid enforcement of traffic ordinances to put a stop to the reckless driving of motorcycles and automobiles through their village. Criticism has always existed but is now more pronounced since recent accidents. Saturday morning last a motorcycle driven by Rudolph Bermanns of Trenton, N. J., crashed into the Ford truck owned by Robert G. Ayers in front of the Milton Auto Company's garage. Bermanns received a broken leg and both the Ford and motorcycle were badly damaged.

Monday afternoon Samuel Diago while on his way to the Milton landing with a load of fruit was struck by an auto and knocked off the wagon to the concrete pavement. He is now suffering with a broken collar bone. The wagon was badly wrecked by the auto which proceeded on its journey.

Theron Was Drunk.

Theron R. Hotaling of this city was arrested Monday evening near the Rhinecliff ferry shed on a charge of public intoxication, and spent the balance of the night at the city hall lockup. He will be arraigned later before Judge Schirick in police court. Officer Keresman made the arrest.

NEW REPARATIONS NOTE THIS WEEK

With Cessation Of Passive Resistance Germans Are Expected To Submit New Proposals.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Sept. 11.—The German charge d'affaires in Paris and Brussels are expected to transmit a new reparations note this week, possibly tonight according to the newspaper L'Oeuvre today.

It is believed that the new German note will contain new proposals and will announce cessation of passive resistance against Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr.

Up to noon there was no official confirmation of the Central News report out of Berlin Monday that the German government has already ordered the German population of the occupied regions in the Rhineland and Ruhr to end passive resistance.

The foreign office stated this afternoon the German passive resistance has not yet ceased entirely. It was announced that the French ambassador at Berlin holds frequent conferences with Chancellor Stresemann, but Germany has not made a definite reparations offer.

Chancellor Stresemann visited the French ambassador Monday and had a long conversation regarding the general situation. Foreign office officials believe the moment is approaching when Berlin will make proposals which Paris will immediately transmit to the other Allies.

The German chancellor is scheduled to make a speech tomorrow probably answering Premier Poincare's Sunday speech when he reiterated that France stood pat upon her original demands.

RECKLESS DRIVER AT PINE HILL FINED $25

Sunday evening, three men from Brooklyn, came down the Pine Hill road at about forty miles an hour in a Ford car, and struck the fender of a Studebaker going in the opposite direction at the foot of the hill, on the turn at the head of Main street. The Ford then ran across the curb and crashed into A. D. Hill's fence in front of his residence. The owner of the Studebaker offered to settle upon the payment of a new fender, but the driver of the Ford refused, and started to leave town with his car, which was only slightly damaged.

The owner of the Studebaker found Officer Charles Griffin, who started in pursuit of the trio and brought them before Judge Hitchcock. The owner of the Ford car was fined $25 for reckless driving and $12 for the damaged fender. As there was no funds among the party, the car was held as security.

How to Eat One's Hat.

Edgar Romer, whose death is much regretted in the house, was a great statistician. Some years ago he predicted a 7 per cent dividend in Buenos Aires and Pacific ordinary stock, and when something unexpected led the directors to declare a lower rate a number of brokers chaffed him unmercifully as they reminded him of his frequently reiterated promise to eat his hat if 7 per cent was not declared.

One day he came into the market and they started to pulling his leg again about eating his hat. Mr. Romer mounted the bench (where Lord Kitchener stood some twety years before) and, placing on his head a straw hat, announced he was prepared to eat it. He took a large bite out of the crown. Another jobber made a grab at the hat, which crumbled in his hand. Amid the shouts of laughter there was a scramble for bits of this hat. Mr. Romer had had it made of some biscuit preparation, the hand being also edible.—London Financial Times.

New Car Confuses Him.

A federal official who is the owner of a new automobile, had the laugh turned on him by his associates when he took his wife for a ride in the new car the other day. Turning on to Boston boulevard from Woodward avenue, he stopped the car in the middle of the block to talk with a friend. When he attempted to start the car, he became confused and the car wouldn't start. His wife eyed him coldly as a crowd began to gather. A four-year-old girl ran to the car, and shouted to the perplexed official: "Take your foot off the clutch, mister." The government officer did so, and the car started. His wife told the story. —Detroit News.

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

FOR DINNER GUESTS

THE first duty of the man or woman who has received an invitation to dine at the house of a friend is to send either an acceptance or regret to that invitation. There is no function where an even number of guests is more essential to its success than a dinner. A dinner engagement once made can be broken only for some vital reason, such as sickness, death in the family, etc. I have known a girl to accept an invitation of this character, then, a day or two before the dinner, decide that her blue gown was too soiled, and her pink one was out of date, and finally write a hasty note to her hostess, saying that she finds she is unable to be present. This is simply inexcusable.

Guests should arrive at the house of their hostess about ten minutes before the hour set. It is almost as grave a mistake to arrive thirty minutes too soon as ten minutes too late. As a rule no room is set aside for the men, as they come in evening dress and simply remove their coats and hats in the hall, but a dressing room is always ready for the women.

When the dinner is announced the hostess asks the men to escort the ladies to the dining room. She designates to each man the woman whom he is to take in. He then offers his left arm to that woman and finds their seats, which will be indicated by place cards. The gentleman then draws out the chair, seats his companion, and seats himself. It is, of course, necessary that the hostess be seated first.

All seated, the guests take their napkins and opening them unostentatiously, lay them across their laps. The first course is usually on the table when the guests enter the dining room. The hostess gives the signal to eat by doing so herself. In this country it is not usual to begin eating until all present have been served, but in England it is considered better form to begin as soon as you are served. It is in very bad form to refuse a course even though you do not wish to eat it. You may, if you choose, refuse some dish that is passed but you should never refuse the course. If you do not like soup, that is no reason why you should not have a plate of it set before you. You need not indulge in it to any extent but make a pretense of it.

Sometimes after dinner it is the custom for the ladies to adjourn to the drawing room and have coffee there, leaving the men of the party to enjoy a stag smoke. This is the English custom but more and more we are adopting the French method of adjourning to the drawing room all together.

A LINE O' CHEER

By John Kendrick Bangs.

A TRIBUTE

THE 'skeeter is a nuisance pure—
That is a fact that's mighty sure,
Yet sometimes I opine if I
Showed half as much real industry,
And sang as he does at the work
He does not seem to wish to shirk,
'Twould not be long ere I'd control
The land and sea, from pole to pole.

Punishment to Fit Crime.

In a case of assault, under the laws of Mexico, the amount of the fine or the form of punishment is fixed by the number of days the victim spends in hospital or under medical supervision. If the period exceeds six whole weeks, the fine is doubled.

SCHOOL DAYS

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

DEPENDENCE

SET at liberty the canary you have fed and tended in exchange for its song, and it soon starves. It has never learned to help itself.

Dumb animals go through life dreadfully handicapped by the lack of reasoning brains. Yet wild animals, thrown from birth on their own resources develop a craft that sometimes carries them to a very old age.

A lap dog, turned out to shift for itself, would not last very long. Like the canary, it has lived a life of dependence on others. All the qualities that might have enabled it to make its way have withered for want of use.

A magazine writer criticizes private schools, with justice, because they do not fit pupils for the struggle for existence. Removed from contact with the kind of people they will meet in actual life, they are often helpless when they are sent out on their own.

Young men and young women must learn very early the necessity of helping themselves.

Begin depending on some one else, and you will always depend on some one else. Begin depending on yourself and you will form a habit that with practice will insure success.

Perhaps 80 per cent of the population, even of this enlightened country, allow other people to do their thinking for them.

Editors, preachers, school teachers scatter broadcast ideas, most of them second-hand. Men and women, finding thought wearisome, accept these ideas and act on them.

Many of these ideas are good, of course. But they are really of little benefit unless they are weighed and tested before acceptance.

Learn to do your own work, and your own thinking. Get out of the cage of dependence. Form your own opinions, and act on them.

If your early years are spent leaning on others, your later years will probably be spent in the poor house. The habit of dependence is the hardest of all habits to break. It can never be broken after you are forty.

MEN YOU MAY MARRY

By E. R. PEYSER

Has a man like this proposed to you?

Symptoms: A middle-aged fascinator, just beginning to be a "bit round" at the waist, slick clothes, perfect fit and all, handsome and knows just where to "get on" and better even, knows just where to get off. Wants what he wants when he wants it. He is not a soft proposition. He has much of the world in his keeping; anyhow he makes you think so. Likes you because he thinks you like him, because you are hard to please. Nothing is too good for him.

IN FACT

He doesn't even think you are.

℞ Prescription for his bride:

Never think you have enough elegancies.

He likes you because he can spend on you.

Keep him on the jump.

Absorb this:

A WOMAN'S REACH MUST EXCEED HER GRAB.

Unhurt by Five-Story Fall.

A two-year-old girl fell off the roof of a five-story building in New York. Two hours later she was sleeping it off. She climbed to the roof while her mother was busy, disregarded the frantic shouts of two small boys, and crawled too near the edge. Pedestrians rushed below. The little girl fell and bounced off an awning into the arms of a waiting rescuer, unhurt.

I NEVER KNEW

By GRACE E. HALL

I NEVER knew that tears could burn
Like acid, 'til they left a scar,
Nor that a heart might truly learn
To hide the deep and painful mar;
Nor that the sunshine sometimes turned
Into a fever fierce and hot.
But these at last I've learned, I've learned—
Since you forgot.

That life could seem a desert plain
Where cactus grew by crumbling wall,
The winds a breath hard-drawn in pain.
Were truths I never guessed at all;
But I've been taught by torture slow
That joy and pain and love are one,
And that the world must never know
What love has done.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"CHEESE"

THAT'S the cheese" is, a slang expression far more common a few years ago than it is at the present time, colloquialisms having a tendency to be short-lived. But, in spite of the fact that the phrase was never formally admitted to polite society, it has an ancestry and a pedigree of which many a more pretentious word might well be proud.

Tracing it backwards, we find that in the Anglo-Saxon days the word "cheese" was spelled "cese" and pronounced almost precisely like the modern German equivalent. In Frisian it was "tzise," while the Latin was "caseus" which, in Spanish, developed into "queso" and in Italian into "cacio." The Celtic languages slightly changed it into "cais" in Irish, "casse" in Gaelic and "caws" in Welsh. It will therefore be seen that the original ancestry of the word is lost somewhere in the dim passages of the early history of language—but, strange as it may seem, "That's the cheese" bears no relation to the article made from milk.

This phrase slipped into English by way of India, where many of the British soldiers picked up bits of Hindustani, among them a word derived from the Persian "chiz," meaning "a thing." In dealing with the native merchants the soldiers fell into the habit of pointing to something and saying "That's the chiz," meaning "That's what I want" and, when they returned home, they brought the saying with them.

SPEAKER GILLETT THINKS U. S. CONGRESS MORE STAID.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 11.—Speaker Fred H. Gillett of the United States today defended American legislators as more orderly and less excitable than European law makers.

"American legislators probably chatter more than English but they are orderly," said Gillett. "There is never any intended disorders such as seen in the House of Commons. It is never necessary to resort to expulsions and suspensions. In 30 years I have known only three cases of suspension from the American House."

Gillett refused to discuss international affairs.

DEMPSEY'S LAST WORKOUT TODAY

Leaves for New York Thursday and Is a "Glad Guy," Calling Saratoga Weather and Camp Worst He's Ever Experienced.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Jack Dempsey performs his last public workout in these parts this afternoon.

"And I'll say I'm a glad guy about that," comments the champion. "Of all the training camps I've ever had this has been the worst."

Dempsey was scheduled to spar four or six speedy rounds after which he will hang up his workout gloves and don them no more until he takes on either Harry Wills or Tom Gibbons—provided that he polishes off Luis Firpo in expected fashion.

On Wednesday Dempsey will do nothing but muscle limbering exercises. He will leave for New York at noon on Thursday, instead of Wednesday, as was planned.

"If I'd have stayed around here much longer I'd have to do my stunts wearing an overcoat and sweater," declared Dempsey.

"It's been mighty cold here for the past three weeks, and the rains of the last few days has made everything so damp and soggy that a fellow has to step around and keep the blood circulating to balk colds and pneumonia."

Jack Kearns packed up last night and left for New York. During the balance of Dempsey's stay here the camp will be in charge of Mike Trant, the detective sergeant of Chicago, who has been Dempsey's constant companion prior to every one of his bouts in the last six years.

Dempsey spends most of his time just now squinting at the calendar and then at the clock.

"Time surely passes slow," he complained. "It seems as I've been waiting for September 14th for about nine or ten years. And I suppose it'll seem like a million years before they ring that gong on Friday night and let me loose against this wild bull.

"I've said again and again that I welcome to fight more than this one with Firpo—and the statement goes. I like to fight the big, hard swinging giants. That's the only time I dare let loose with both fists, without fear of breaking somebody's neck. I've been spoiling for just such a fight as this—and boy, Oh, boy, I'll be glad when I can finally begin to let fists fly at the Argentine socker.

"I noticed that most folks have it all figured out that I'm going to take Luis within four rounds. That's mighty flattering to me. I hope I can live up to expectations. I'd like to put Firpo to sleep in the first round, if that's possible, if Firpo will step right in and make it a toe-to-toe affair then I'll soon demonstrate whether or not I'm still a good swatsmith.

"But if Firpo, with that big and huge frame of his, decides to do some clinching and mauling and elects to make it a hugging match right from the start, he may use up quite a few rounds in that way and keep me from getting the hoped for shots against his jaw and body.

"Just how long that fight lasts depends a whole lot on how Firpo fights. If he is one of those hugging babies, it will be quite some time before I can get clear for solid hitting, but if Luis will step right in and do his swinging and let me swing, and if he stays right there and we keep on swinging, the fight won't last very long.

Either I'll knock Luis overboard in a hurry—or they'll be hurrahing for a new champion."

NOLAN THINKS FIRPO A MISTAKE

But Like the Others He Takes Senor's Wicked Right Into Consideration and Says Dempsey Can Be Hit.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 11.—Add to the over supply of volunteer pall bearers who regard Luis Firpo as a terrible mistake, the name of Billy Nolan, celebrated raconteur, man of the world and manager of Battling Nelson in the days of Goldfield, Nev., and the immortal Joe Gans. Mr. Nolan is not impressed with the senor as a possible champion and said as much today.

He is not particularly enamored of Jack Dempsey either. Mr. Nolan being what might be characterized as a tough audience. He merely thinks Firpo lacks the sheer ability to become champion of the world, although willing to concede that the Latin's strength and punch give him an outside chance on Friday night, providing he is able and willing to take a beating in order to give one.

"He is a big, powerful fellow," quoth Mr. Nolan with the air of one who divulges a secret. "The question in my mind is whether he can stand the gaff. He is sure to take a terrible beating for I never saw a challenger with less defense than this man has. He doesn't seem to know what to do when they start hammering him in a clinch and I can't see how he is going to avoid being hit often with a left hook.

"His own left is a joke. He might as well tie it behind him for then the temptation of trying to use it would be removed.

"However, I don't agree with you fellows on the assertion that Dempsey is a superman. He can be hit and anybody that can be hit can be hurt. If Firpo can stand up under the punishment he is sure to receive for a few rounds at least, he might be able to land one good one with that right of his. Anything he hits is sure to be hurt."

We haven't the slightest reason for doubting Mr. Nolan on that point, since, less than twenty-four ago, we enjoyed the privilege of matching hands with the Latin and finished an exceedingly poor second. His fingers extended beyond ours for a matter of an inch and a half and their thickness through the knuckle was amazing. Apparently we could have put our entire hand in his palm.

It is said that the challenger's hand measures 10½ inches from thumb tip to little finger and is probably the biggest and most compact known to modern man. It might be mentioned also, that a punch without an adequate hand is like a saw without teeth.

McGRAW LIFTS BAN ON PITCHER WATSON.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, Sept. 11.—John Watson formerly of the Braves but now of the Giants, since the Jess Barnes-Earl Smith-Hank Gowdy deal, will probably be back in the line-up here today.

Manager McGraw received a long distance call from Watson yesterday. He promised to be good and McGraw finally agreed to put it up to his club. The players said they'd guarantee that "Watty" would break no more training rules.

Watson's appearance at train time was such that Manager McGraw not only fined him $500 but also suspended him for the remainder of the season.
